

Cenco Building Services

Job Position: Sales Manager--Residential

Location: Denver, Colorado

Do you have what it takes to drive success while managing a team? Do you get satisfaction from seeing others reach their potential? Looking for a new challenge with incredible growth potential?

Cenco Building Services is a Denver-based company backed by a Fortune 500 corporation. We are seeking a talented Sales Manager with a proven track record of hiring and managing a team in the home improvement industry.

This role involves:

- Hiring, training and managing a team of residential sales consultants
- Daily feedback and in-the-field management of Sales team members
- Setting and achieving quarterly and annual corporate goals
- Living the core values and reinforcing them across team members
- Active participation of management level strategic planning and implementation

All the following are provided:

- Ongoing Paid training programs
- Competitive salary plus commission structure with result-based bonuses
- Company vehicle with gas and insurance
- Healthcare coverage, unlimited time off plan, retirement plan, and additional benefits
- Monthly training by industry-leading professional consultants
- Active integration with a hands-on management team

We are an Equal Opportunity Employer and value workplace diversity. We seek to create an environment and culture that embraces the differences of our employees.

Our company culture is fun, hard-working, and focused on continual improvement and community involvement. Contact us today to set up an interview if you think you have what it takes to be the BITW (Best In The World).

Send us your resume today!