

Media Contact:

Sophia Rini, 347-804-3895, sophia.rini@rockwool.com

ROCKWOOL ANNOUNCES IMPROVED LEAD TIMES FOR ROOFING PRODUCTS

New York City, NY (January 24, 2022) – ROCKWOOL, the world's leading manufacturer of stone wool products, announces significant reduction in lead times for their roofing products thanks in part to the successful operations of its newest North American facility in West Virginia.

The state-of-the-art facility opened last year and as production capabilities have ramped up, the increased capacity is making it easier and faster to supply customers and distributors throughout the United States.

ROCKWOOL's aggressive production achievements have allowed the company to improve lead times when supply chain issues are impacting the entire roofing industry. ROCKWOOL is now uniquely able to respond more quickly to customer demand and service roofing customers' insulation requirements using our high-quality stone wool insulation products.

ROCKWOOL wants all North American customers who are interested in having their roofing insulation needs met to contact Joe Donnelly (joe.donnelly@rockwool.com) or Dave Lawlor (dave.lawlor@rockwool.com) directly for additional information on specific product availability.

About ROCKWOOL North America:

With five manufacturing facilities and more than 1,200 employees, ROCKWOOL is North America's largest stone wool producer, offering advanced building insulation, industrial and technical solutions. For more information, visit: www.rockwool.com (North America).